Nick Lombardo was born in San Miguel, Buenos Aires, Argentina. He started playing tennis at the age of six in a small tennis academy close to his house and soon realized he wanted to be a professional tennis player. As a junior in Argentina, he traveled all over the country with his family to play national tournaments. At the age of thirteen, he moved to Fort Lauderdale, Florida with his mom, to be able to engage at a high junior competitive level. He competed in level one tournaments such as Eddie Hear, Orange Bowl, and Prince cup, also traveling to the Caribbean for other ITF tournaments. At the age of seventeen, he was offered a full scholarship at the University of South Carolina Aiken. Throughout his tennis career at USCA he achieved the MVP award for the men's tennis team in 2005 and 2006 as well as Student Athlete of the year for 2005 and 2006. In 2006 playing at Number one and Number two spots, he achieved a national ranking of 42nd in the NCAA. From 2006 to 2008 he worked at Houndslake Country Club as a tennis instructor, coaching players of all different ages and all different levels. He has been at The Fermata Club since March of 2008 teaching clinics and private lessons for men, woman and children of all levels.
